COLLEGE PROFILE

THE NEW SCHOOL

New York City, NY
Founded in 1919

Departments: Parsons School of Design, the Eugene Lang College of Liberal Arts, The New School for Social Research, the Schools of Public Engagement, the College of Performing Arts

WHAT MAKES IT UNIQUE?

Unlike most U.S. universities, The New School has a "student-directed curriculum", which does not require its undergraduates to take general education courses. Instead, students are encouraged to explore before focusing on a major, selecting topics that are of interest to them. Although all "New Schoolers" are required to complete rigorous core training—usually of a literary, conservatory, or artistic nature—students are expected to be the primary designer of their own individualized and eclectic education.

Academic Life

The student-faculty ratio at The New School is 9:1, with 90% of its classes with fewer than 20 students. The average freshman retention rate, an indicator of student satisfaction, is 82% .

Net Price Calculators

As of 2008, all Title IX universities MUST have a net price calculator posted on their webpages to help families estimate their total university cost. In most cases, these calculators are very close to what a student's financial aid award package will entail. It's a great way to compare early on how much one university will be over the other.

Most universities will host this calculator in the Financial Aid pages of their website. You can find any university's calculator at <https://collegecost.ed.gov/netpricecenter.aspx>
